Just minutes from Holborn Underground, The Hercules Pillars proudly stands as one of the company's longest running establishments. Established in 1982, it was one of the final pubs added by former director Ron Knowles before passing the reins to his son, Keith. Known for its grand decor and historic charm, the venue offers a flexible mix of spaces to suit a variety of occasions.

Head of Food Alex crafts mouth-watering dishes inspired by traditional pub favourites, reimagined with a modern twist. The space beneath the main bar has hosted everything from social gatherings and meetings to sports screenings and celebrations, all supported by a dedicated events team to ensure smooth, stress-free planning.
